

Using residual flows

A lot of energy and heat in the city is still wasted. The urban energy management becomes more efficient if for instance residual heat from companies is used for heating homes.